Informal business valuation

Valuing a business

It's important to know the current value of your business so you know how much it can contribute to your retirement income goal. The company value may be different depending on the buyer. For example, the value may differ between a third party, a co-owner or a family member.

There are different methods for determining value and no one method is always appropriate. Ultimately, the "fair market value" of a business is the amount agreed upon by a willing buyer and a willing seller. Neither party is under any compulsion to buy or sell, both must have a reasonable knowledge of all the relevant facts.

Here are some considerations when valuing a business ${ }^{1}$ :

- Nature and history of business
- Outlook for the economy and the specific industry
- Financial condition of the business and its book value
- Earnings capacity of the company
- Nature and value of any intangible assets of the business, such as goodwill
- Relative size and block of the business interest to be valued and any prior sales
- Market price of actively traded stock of corporations in the same or similar business
${ }^{1}$ Per IRS Revenue Ruling 59-60

Comments and considerations

- Understand the value of your business and how this relates to your business succession goals.

Buy-sell and succession strategies Buy-sell planning

If you're like many business owners, you're planning on your business playing a key role in providing your retirement income. Perhaps you're thinking about selling it and taking a lump sum or regular installment payments. Or, maybe you intend to gift the business to a family member.

To protect yourself, your family and your business, it's important to determine exactly to whom, how and when you want to transition your business. Identifying the buyer and determing a purchase price is critical for retirement planning as well as protecting your family in the event of an unplanned exit from the business.

First, ask yourself who and how .

Then ask when. Make sure you consider both planned and unplanned exits from your business - such as retirement, dissolution, death, disability, divorce, and termination.

Based on the information you provided, we understand this is your business transfer goal:

- You intend to transfer your business in 10 years to a key employee using an installment note.
- You have protected your strategy with a buy-sell agreement funded with life insurance.

Buy-sell and succession strategies Buy-sell agreement

Your decisions about to whom, how, and when you want to transition your business should be documented in a buy-sell agreement that aligns with your goals. A well-funded and current buy-sell agreement is an essential planning tool to help enhance the stability, manage known transitions, and protect the financial value of your business from unplanned events. We can help guide you through the process, starting with a complimentary review of any buy-sell agreement.

Help protect your business and your retirement

While most business owners believe planning for the transition of their business at death is key, a transition during their lifetime is much more likely. That's why it's important to plan how your business transition will impact your retirement. Life and disability buy-out insurance should be considered to fund your buy-sell agreement.

We can help you design a properly funded buy-sell agreement that:

- Provides departing owners a market and price for an asset that might be hard to sell.
- Prevents an unqualified/undesirable individual from acquiring an interest in your business.
- Minimizes business disruptions at trigger events (e.g. death, divorce, or retirement).
- Offers assurances to employees, customers, suppliers, and creditors that the business will remain strong through owner transitions.
- When funded with insurance, provides both the financing and the mechanism to ensure that control of the business will remain with the current owners.

Buy-sell and succession strategies Installment sale model

Oftentimes, family members, key employees, or successors don't have the resources to purchase the business outright. An installment sale can help facilitate the transaction, provide long-term income, and spread the capital gains tax burden over time.

How it works

The buyer makes a down payment, then using an installment note, the buyer pays the remaining amount based on a predetermined payment schedule of principal and interest. Life insurance is often purchased to insure both the buyer and seller, protecting the sale in the event of an untimely death.

|  | Installment note |  |  | Cost to buyer |  | Net to seller |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |

Comments and considerations

- Consider the after-tax cost of buying the business on an installment basis
- Consider protecting the sale with life insurance.

Retirement income

Let's look at your retirement income potential with the proceeds from the sale of your business along with your other savings. Based on the information you provided, we've put together the following analysis ${ }^{1}$ :
Assumptions

| Current age | 55 | Qualified plans and taxable IRAs | $$ 400,000$ |

| Desired annual income | $$ 250,000$ | Investment account balance | $$ 100,000$ |
| Annual Social Security income | $$ 24,000$ | Annual investment contributions | $$ 10,000$ |
| Age to begin Social Security | 67 | Deferred compensation income | $$ 0$ |
| Spouse Social Security income | $$ 18,000$ | Other income | $$ 0$ |
| Age to begin Social Security | 67 | Pre-retirement rate of return | $6.0 \%$ |
| Rental income | $$ 100,000$ | Inflation rate | $2.0 \%$ |
| Business income | $$ 300,000$ | Federal and State income tax rate | $35 \%$ |

Your retirement gap at age 65 is $1,115,488

Comments and considerations

- Based on the information you provided, you may not have enough savings and incomeproducing assets to support your retirement income goals.
- Consider qualified retirement plan and nonqualified plan options.
- Consider additional savings and strategies for supplementing your income.

Retirement income Supplemental retirement plan

Here are your primary options to cover any gap between what you have and what you'll need.

Work longer

This isn't an ideal option, but one to consider, nonetheless.

Increase the market value of your business

Consider activities that can help make your business worth more to cover the $$ 1,115,488$ gap (net of capital gains) . . . such as reigning in discretionary expeditures.

Save more

Implementing a nonqualified supplemental retirement plan may be a tax-efficient way to create additional retirement income. Contributing approximately $$ 81,681$ annually to an appropriate plan may help you meet your goals.

Bridge the gap with a supplemental retirement plan

Now that we've identified that there's a gap between what you have in place for retirement income and what you'll likely need, let's look at a possible soluiton.

A nonqualified supplemental retirement plan can be set up through your business to provide a potentially tax-advantaged way to supplement other retirement assets you may have.

How it works

- You select an amount to contribute on an after-tax basis.
- Contributions are used to fund a personally-owned asset that finances the plan. And company cash flow can be used to accomplish this.
- At retirement, you can access accumulated values in the plan to supplement your income.

Get the plan that's right for you

Your customized plan will be designed based on your personal, business, and plan objectives. And the design will determine specific benefits available. We'll help you sort through all the details and assist you in designing and implementing a plan that meets your specific needs. We'll consider:

- The structure of your business.
- Additional participants (employees or other owners) you may want to include in the plan.
- The effect the plan may have on your business transition strategy.
- The tax impact to you and the business during both accumulation and distribution phases.
- Plan financing preferences.

Retirement income  Principal ${ }^{\circledR}$ Bonus - S Owner

Based on our understanding of your objectives and preferences, we're recommending a Principal Bonus - S Owner plan to address your supplemental retirement income needs.

This bonus plan can help fill your retirement income gap by providing tax leverage like a Roth IRA without the contribution limits and restrictions on compensation that apply to qualified plans. The tax advantages are provided by the life insurance used to finance the plan, rather than being based on a tax code provision.

How it works

You select an amount to contribute from W-2 compensation or K-1 distribuitons ${ }^{1}$ - and your dollars are used to finance the personally owned asset - like life insurance. At retirement, you may access the values in the financial asset to help supplement your retirement income.

There are many advantages to this plan for you, just as there are some things to consider:

Save more. While qualified plans and Roth IRAs offer tax benefits, they have limits on compensation and contributions that don't apply to this bonus plan. ${ }^{1}$
Choose from contribution options. As an S corporation owner, you can choose to take income as W-2 compensation or a K-1 distribution allowing some payroll tax leverage.
Pay out distributions properly. If there's more than one owner, and K-1 distributions are used, distributions need to be in proportion to ownership.
Pay income tax now. Whether profits are distributed or retained for business expansion, you and any other owners are taxed on the profits of the business. ${ }^{2}$
Need to be healthy. You must be able to qualify for life insurance if you choose to use it for financing the plan.
Choose alternate financing options. If you or another owner is unable to qualify for life insurance, other options for financing the plan are available. But these options will have different tax implications regarding accumulation and distribution.
${ }^{1}$ Contributions must meet reasonable compensation regulations.
${ }^{2}$ S Corporation owners report their share of business profits on their personal tax returns. Depending on your type of business and other personal income, you might be entitled to a deduction under IRC Section 199A, of up to 20\% of your passthrough income as a result of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.

Retirement income  Chronic illness protection

You can help protect your family from the hardships of a serious, long-term illness. Some life insurance policies have a rider that allows you to access part of your policy's death benefit if you're diagnosed with a chronic illness. The money could be used to help:

- Pay for quality care
- Cover medical expenses not paid by insurance
- Protect your retirement savings
- Stay more financially secure
- Live your best life possible

Someone turning age 65 today has almost a 70\% chance of needing some type of longterm care services and supports in their remaining years. ${ }^{1}$

[^1]

About 80\% of older adults have one chronic disease. ${ }^{2}$

Nearly 70\%
of Medicare beneficiaries have two or more
chronic diseases. ${ }^{2}$

${ }^{2}$ NCOA Healthy Aging Fact Sheet, July 10, 2018

Comments and considerations

- A chronic illness can interfere with retirement, business succession, and estate plans.
- You indicated that you're concerned about a chronic illness.
- Consider purchasing a life insurance policy which includes provisions to protect you in case of a chronic illness.

Business and income protection strategies Help protect your business, key employees, and lifestyle

As a business owner, you've probably had to deal with things you weren't expecting. With so much of your retirement income hinging on your business, it only makes sense to protect both you and your business from the unexpected.

Help ensure your biggest asset is protected
High performing employees are one of the biggest assets of a company. What impact would the loss of one have on your business? Our recent Business Owner study shows that only 50\% of owners have a business protection plan in place', leaving those without one exposed to risk.

Key person insurance can help. It's a simple, yet effective way to ensure your business has the necessary funds to deal with the loss of a key employee through death or disability. Using cash-value life insurance (owned by the company) to fund a key person plan can also provide other benefits, including:

- Establishing a sinking fund for a down payment for a purchase occurring at retirement.
- Retaining and rewarding key employees, thus helping to protect the value of your company as you transition into retirement.

What if you became too sick or hurt to work?

How would you pay the utilities, lease/rent or employees' salaries? Would you have to spend your hard-earned savings or your retirement assets to make ends meet?

Unexpected events don't have to threaten your business, your current lifestyle or your retirement security. Individual disability insurance solutions are available to help you throughout the period of your unexpected disability:

- Individual disability income insurance. Provides a monthly benefit that works like a paycheck to help you pay your personal bills and maintain your lifestyle.
- Disability retirement protection. Allows you to continue saving for retirement by by investing benefits into an irrevocable trust.
- Overhead expense insurance. Reimburses you for fixed business expenses.
- Business loan protection. Covers the cost of business-related loans when attached as a rider on overhead expense insurance.

This chart is for illustrative purposes only and is made available as a self-help resource for your planning convenience. Retirement income sources are calculated on an after-tax basis. The results are based on your inputs and are not intended to be a financial plan or investment advice from Principal but may be used as a general guideline to help you make personal planning and financial decisions. Responsibility for these decisions is assumed by you, not Principal. All projections, analysis and calculation results are estimates and depend on many factors, including the data and assumptions you provide, and may not reflect all your sources of income or expenditures. Actual results may vary and do not represent the returns of any particular investment.
